Items.

Salt River is navigable for small craft as, last week, L. Vandermark and Wm. Kilgore brought five tons of wheat, in a flat boat, from Hayden Ferry, down the river to the mouth of Swilling canal and thence down the canal to Hellings & Co.'s mill.

G. A. Wilson commenced cutting his barley on Wednesday the 23d inst.

The teams of Murphy & Dennis brought up a new steam thresher from Yuma for the Steam Threshing Company.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever," I thought as B. F. Patterson placed a handsome bouquet of sweet smelling roses and pretty garden flowers on my table the other day. Mrs. Patterson believes in making home happy, and therefore cultivates the beautiful. This is the true idea. A place where people live, devoid of beauty and convenience, may be a stopping place, it can be no home. Neatness, beauty, love and happiness are essentials. Let our farmers make gardens, plant fruit and shade trees, cultivate flowers and music, and spend something for the ornamental, and Salt River Valley will become noted for happy homes.

Barnett & Block, A. B. Liles, and Holcum & Hargraves have each received a new header.

The Miser Extra was received this morning with enthusiasm. While people deplore the death of Gen. Canby, they cannot but hope that the Peace party will begin to see affairs in their true light.

Judge Hayden returned this week from a trip up toward the head waters of Salt river. He has been examining the country and river with a view of floating saw logs down to his ferry in Salt river valley, and has become satisfied that the project is feasible. A gentleman who has had a large experience in the lumber business in Maine and who has examined Salt river with a view to float logs down to make lumber is of the opinion that it has advantages for purposes of that kind superior to any of the rivers in Maine. If such should prove to be the case, it will materially reduce the price of lumber in the settlements of Arizona, and will prove of great advantage in the construction of the Texas Pacific Railroad and the military telegraph.

THE HAYDEN PARTY.

About which there was so much uneasiness, is all right. S. D. Sugert, one of the company, gave me the following particulars: On leaving McDowell they followed up Salt river as closely as possible for nearly 200 miles, and discovered nothing in the channel of the river to interfere with the floating of logs down it. On the route they passed through many small fertile valleys still containing the remains of old ditches and the ruins of old houses, but now overgrown with timber. They found game very scarce, walnut and cherry trees very large, and Indians very numerous, but friendly. The latter had a habit of rushing out from some thicket which the party had just passed, whooping and howling like demons, which action often made their hair stand on end, and, at best, was anything but agreeable. Some of these Indians had passes and others were tagged and labelled like so much merchandise. Having found a good location where pines were plenty and good they made a canoe out of a tree and putting some logs into the river, left six of the party to drive them down while Hayden and Sugert returned home by Camp Apache, San Carlos and old Camp Grant.

ZOOM VERSION

The Hayden party, left up Salt River to come down in a canoe and drive some logs with them, have returned, and pronounce the scheme a failure. With much toil and difficulty, on account of rapids and boulders in the river, they descended a long way, when, having lost their arms, ammunition and provisions, excepting flour, they arrived at a canon so narrow as not to admit of the passage of a log, and were compelled to abandon their boat and loot it. Mr. Hayden is still sanguine of getting sufficient timber on this side of the canon.

The Gila River Navigable?--Arrival of a Skiff and Three Bold Navigators.

Whether the Gila river is available for navigation is a question which was never settled to the affirmative; although the stevedore Uncle Sam used to run up for some distance, and bring down loads of wood. Last week the advocates of navigation of the Gila obtained a solid fact from the arrival here of Messrs. Charles Hamilton, R. W. Jordan and E. R. Halesworth; who built a skiff at Phoenix, at an expense of $10, and paddled it down here to Yuma, with all their accoutrements and baggage, (called for "grub and blankets;" see Commentaries. Bell: Gall.) They report the river perfectly practicable for navigation, except at one spot, about ten miles above Gila Bend; there the channel was obstructed by rocks, leaving a passage only some eight feet wide. This obstruction, they say, can be easily removed by a few small blasts. The river would then have easily floated down a flat boat loaded with grain, pumpkins, or other fruits of the "Orchard of Arizona," and drawing two feet of water. The geodesic distance from here to Phoenix is 170 miles, but following the turns of the river, the actual distance paddled by the aforesaid navigators must have been over 300 miles. In no place is the river narrowed down into anything like a box-car; though below Oatman, its valley is hemmed in by precipitous walls of basaltic lava. So far as known here, the three gentlemen named belong to the honor of being the first white men to successfully navigate the continuous miles of the Gila river. It is now incumbent upon the city springing citizens of Phoenix to make a prompt shipment of produce to Yuma by water. From Yuma, down the Colorado, to Lake water at Fort Yuma, navigation is easy; from there to New York or London, Phoenix has ocean transportation for her produce. By demonstrating that she has water communication with the markets of the world, Phoenix can just make Prescott turn green and "bust" with envy; by doing this she can oppose a check to the exactions of the "monopoly monopoly." If her citizens will not stand the extortionate fares (ten cents a mile by rail, twenty by stage) they can navigate the Gila river wauk.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Messrs. Cotton and Bingham will leave to-morrow for Yuma by way of the Salt and Gila rivers. They have constructed for the trip, an 18-foot skiff, flat-bottom, which will draw very little water, while at the same time it has the appearance of being very strong and durable, and able to stand pretty severe buffeting.

The "Yuma or East" party which left Phoenix recently for the purpose of exploring the Salt and Gila rivers were seen yesterday, only twelve miles from here, all wading in mud and water up to their knees, pulling the boat, and apparently as happy(?) as mudturtles.

The officers of the "Yuma or Bust" returned on to-day's stage. They report having arrived safely at Yuma six days out from this port. We have advices however, that the boat reached Gila Bend and "busted." The liquor having given out three days before, the crew subsisted on bacon straight, enduring great hardships, being compelled to wade in the water the greater portion of the time and push the craft ahead of them. The Yuma papers may enlighten us as to which account is correct, unless they have been bought off.

Jim Meadows, late of Yuma and formerly a pioneer of the Tomba Basin, is in town on a visit to his old stamping ground. Jim's experience in the Tomba district has been varied and to some extent rather strenuous. He lost both father and a brother during a fight with Apaches, and Jim was shot in a number of places and left for dead. This occurred in 1882. In 1887 Jim made the first attempt, with success attending him, to navigate the waters of the Salt river between Livingstone and Tempe, accompanied by two white men and a negro. In passing through the first box canyon the negro was scared stiff. In passing through the second box they got hung upon the rocks and had to roll more rocks into the water to raise the water high enough to float the boat clear. He is a brother of Charles Meadows, otherwise called Arizona Charlie, who took a wild west show to Australia a few years ago, also brother of Mabley M., sheriff of Imperial county, with Jake Meadows as chief deputy.

Exploration of Salt River Canyon.

A party of five men, including William Burch, John Meadows and Lew Robinson, started in a boat from near Eddy's ranch, yesterday morning, to explore Salt river canyon, said to be about 60 miles long and through which a boat was never known to pass. The rapids with numerous projecting boulders make the trip a hazardous one, but the party have a staunch craft, 18 feet long by five feet wide, and are confident of accomplishing the passage of the cañon without any mishaps. The object of the trip is to ascertain if logs could be floated through the cañon. If practical, Mr. Burch intends erecting a saw mill at the foot of the Sierra Anchas and floating the logs down the river to Phoenix.—Silver Belt. *

In our issue of last Wednesday we published an extract from the Silver Belt relative to the exploration of the Salt river cañon, a section of the river which waters this valley, and which heretofore has never been entered much less passed through. Yesterday James Logan, Wm. Burch, John Meaders and Wm. Robinson, composing the party of daring adventurers arrived in this city, having landed their craft at Tempe and coming into this city in six days after launching their boat. They report having enjoyed a most exciting and interesting trip. Through the box cañon of the Salt river the banks frequently towered above them over 1,000 feet, and on one occasion they were wrecked, losing provisions, fire arms, etc. The object of the trip was to determine whether saw logs could be rafted to the lower Salt river, and the undisputed conclusion is that such work can be successfully carried on. In fact Mr. Burch, who is a saw-mill man on the upper Salt river has partially contracted for the delivery at Tempe of over one thousand railroad ties. If experience should demonstrate that saw logs can be successfully floated from the timber regions to this portion of the Salt river, then the benefits derived from this exploration cannot be over-estimated.

PHOENIX, SATURDAY, JUNE 6.

VALUABLE DISCOVERIES

Resulting from the Exploration of the Box Canyon.

An Unlimited Timber Supply and an Unequaled Point for Constructing a Reservoir.

Last evening the GAZETTE reporter interviewed John Meaders, one of the members of the daring party which recently passed through the Box cañon of Salt river in a small boat. The party had a most interesting and exciting trip, being five days in making the voyage, which from Armer's place, about 4 miles above the point where Tonto creek debouches into the Salt river, to the dam of the Grand canal where the boat was tied up, includes a distance of about 100 miles calculating upon the sinuities of the stream. The box cañon pierces the foot hills of the Four Peak range, which in to the north of the stream, while lower down Superstitious mountain forms the south bank. The cañon proper is about 60 miles in length, and begins at the mouth of Tonto creek. For a distance of about eight miles the explorers passed down the river where precipitous banks arose varying from 200 to 1000 feet, then came a rolling country for a few miles and the boat entered the main box which continued for a distance of perhaps 20 miles. Before entering the second cañon the bed of the stream narrows to only 11 feet. This discovery is perhaps the most important made, simply through the fact that a dam may be placed across the river at that point, and at comparatively small expense, which would form a reservoir or lake of fully 20 miles in length. The walls at this point are precipitous only for a height of 15 feet, but a granite mountain rises on one side, while rolling hills come down to the other bank. A dam of 11 feet at the bottom, and rising to a height of 300 feet would not be over 600 feet in width at the top, and would form a reservoir sufficient to irrigate millions of acres of farming lands. The water is not particularly swift at this point and Mr. Meaders thinks that engineering skill could easily devise a way for constructing a reservoir.

Mr. Meaders tells the reporter that the character of the rock forming the cañon is a dark syenite, in which several iron dikes were seen.

At one point they passed through a mineral belt, the appearance of which was very good, but owing to lack of time it was not prospected. Timber exists in the Four Peak range in large quantities. Game and fish are most plentiful, the party having killed one mountain sheep and several deer, while they caught large quantities of Salt river trout—called by some white salmon. These fish closely resemble the lake trout of California but are not so game. Several of these fish, weighing eight and ten pounds, were caught by the explorers, but in previous instances fish of this species weighing forty pounds have been caught. The boat on one occasion shot under a cave, but a few feet high, and where its inmates commenced to fear that the end had come; here the fish were so thick that the boat floated on their backs.

Besides the two cañons we have referred to there are a succession of others of various lengths, aggregating a distance of about thirty miles. They are all of the same character, however. The water flows very swiftly through most portions of the cañon, and its depth varies from six to twenty feet, the stream being held in very narrow limits. No drift wood or any other debris exists in the cañon, the force of the water driving everything before it.

As was stated in the GAZETTE report of yesterday, the object of the exploration was to ascertain the practicability of floating logs down the river to this city, and the absence of drift and the general character of the cañon demonstrates most fully that such a project may be successfully undertaken. This in itself is an important discovery, for the reason that it will open to this valley the timber belt of the Sierra Anche, which is undoubtedly the best and most extensive in the territory.

Of course the voyage of Messrs. Burch, Robinson, Logan and Meaders was not without its excitement and pleasures as well as dangers. They were exploring a section man never before penetrated. Dashing along in a frail craft in some instances at a rate of twenty miles an hour, and the banks of the stream rising above them on either side to a height of 1,000 feet, is of course sufficiently exciting to satisfy the most adventurous. They expected every minute to strike a waterfall and have their boat dashed to pieces, as they feared when they shot the cave. On one occasion their boat upset and much of their supplies were lost. In case of losing their vessel in the cañon but one recourse would be left, that of swimming down the stream to a break in one bank or another and that might not be encountered for a distance of twenty miles. The description of the scenery as given by Mr. Meaders, is grandly beautiful and awe inspiring, and if an artist could reproduce it, a fortune would award his genius. It was a desperate undertaking, successfully accomplished, but cannot be considered a fool-hardy attempt, for the reason that it was made for a laudable purpose.

The Box Canyon.

In our account of the recent exploration of the Box cañon of the Salt river, we stated that the passage through the gorge by Messrs. Robinson, Burch, Logan and Meaders was the first ever made. It now turns out that we were premature in this statement. Postmaster Mowry related to the reporter this morning his recollections of the description of the cañon and a trip made through the same by Frank Middleton, now of Flagstaff, and his brother-in-law George Shute, now residing on the upper Salt river. This was eight or ten years ago. The two men started out to make the descent of the cañon on foot, carrying their rifles, blankets and food. There was much less water in the stream than at present, but nevertheless the adventurers had a very severe struggle, and came very nearly perishing before they got through. They lost their guns, and exhausted or lost their provisions when out a few days. Nevertheless they succeeded in making the trip and came on to Phoenix, where they carefully related their experience to Mr. Mowry.

Story Of Boating Trip Across Desert Told By Local Oldtimer

"Voyaged" From Phoenix To Yuma

Stanley Sykes, 405 North Humphrey, Flagstaff old-timer and resident of Arizona since 1880, once made a boat voyage across the state from Phoenix to Yuma. In "Boating Across the Desert," an article in the current issue of Arizona Wildlife and Sportsman, Mr. Sykes tells his strange story, reprinted herewith:

I think it was about 52 years ago, which would put the time somewhere in the early nineties, that Charlie McLean and I were placer mining with more or less success on the Hassayampa. It had seemed to be a good place to spend the winter, but as the season advanced the mercury sank lower and lower. About Christmas time, or maybe in early January, it got so cold that our dog didn't like it. All he would do was to hunt the sunny slopes of the canyon, and then finally he started South and that was the last we ever saw of him. As he went out of sight around a bend in the canyon, it put an idea into our heads. "I think that dog, for all his general worthlessness, has more sense than we have," Charlie remarked.

"You're right," I answered. "If we have as much sense as that dog, we'll head South too."

So next morning we packed our two burros and followed the dog. We made it down to Phoenix in a few days, but it was not very hot there, either. We talked it over and decided that as Yuma was reputed to be comfortably warm in the winter, we should perhaps go there. It looked like a longish sort of a walk, but as the Salt River ran past Phoenix and was supposed to empty into the Gila which in turn entered the Colorado at Yuma, the best plan seemed to be to travel by boat.

What could be easier, or more pleasant; we would build a boat and just drift down. That was what we thought and told each other at the time, but it didn't work out just that way. We set about building a boat in a corral at that time somewhere near Five Points. It may have been called the Five Points Corral.

It was a good boat, with a light wooden frame, canvas covered. We gave the canvas a good coat of white lead and oil, sold our burros and were ready to start. We got a man with a wagon and team to haul our boat, bedding and grub to the nearest point on the river that would float the boat. As I remember it, he left us at a place where the water was about 15 or 20 feet wide and a foot or so deep.

Fortunately the boat was of light construction, which we found later was what saved the situation. For after eating our breakfast, loading the duffle into what might well have been christened "The Pride of the Salt River" and showing off, the river went dry on us. After riding for half a mile we were confronted with nothing but very dry — in fact dusty — sand. Nothing but sand of the most parched variety down the river bed as far as we could see.

We camped and prospected ahead, finally locating a trickle of water about a mile farther down, so we carried the boat and things to the water.

There wasn't enough water to float the boat with us in it, but by walking along each side and helping the craft over the shallower places we managed to make some progress. Somewhat farther down we came to a dam, and here all the water went into an irrigation ditch. There seemed to be no alternative so into the ditch we sailed. We made about two miles in this fashion and by that time the laterals had drained most of the water away, so we saw nothing but desert ahead of us. This called for a search, first to find the river, then a place where it had moisture in it, and transportation overland to the path of wetness.

This kind of thing kept up for some days, until at last we reached the Gila, and from then on we had a little better going. There was not what could be called too much water, even here, but most of the time one of us could stay in the boat. The other one walked along the bank with a gun, occasionally getting a shot at a quail or rabbit with consequent improvement of the grub pile.

Somewhere down the Gila we came to a brush dam built clear across the river. But there was a hole about four feet wide in the middle of the dam with a good stream of water pouring through the aperture and a two-foot fall on the lower side. This looked like a perfect setup for some shooting-the-rapids stuff, so we headed into it.

Then there was trouble. One stake was firmly imbedded in the center of the opening, its top just under the water. The boat hit, hung there for a second and then turned over. As it started over we both jumped and at that place, just below the dam was a pool that was plenty deep.

I swam ashore and ran down the bank to the next shallow place. There I took my stand and caught the camp equipment as it came drifting by. Charlie stayed with the boat and got it to shore and beached.

Fortunately we didn't lose anything. In fact we gained more in the way of provisions than we had before the upset. We had some tea in a cloth sack. Of course it got well soaked and after we dried it out we had practically a bucket full. From then on it took about two handfuls of tea to make a cup.

After this we had as much desert, but more water in the river bed so we made pretty good time to Yuma. I don't recall just how long it took us to make the trip. Three weeks, or maybe a month would be my guess now.

Perhaps to anyone else the obvious thing to have done would be to make an inspection of the wetness of the river at Phoenix before starting to build the boat. I admit that idea has some logic behind it. But if Charlie and I had done that perhaps we wouldn't have built the boat and would have lost out on a very fine trip. And just how many others have made the trip from Phoenix to Yuma by boat in the nineteenth century or for that matter the Twentieth — I wouldn't know.

As a considerable number of the leading Republicans of the Territory will assemble at Phoenix on April 7th for another purpose, that time would seem opportune for such a meeting and organization, as we propose, and the local club here will probably hold a meeting this week to consider the matter of delegates to such a gathering.

On the first of September last J. K. Day and his family, consisting of four sons, a daughter, and a small band of baggage, started on a journey to Yuma, Arizona, to visit the property of their late father (deceased).

J. K. Day has been engaged in business for some years past and has been very successful in making a very comfortable livelihood for his family. He is a native of the State of New York and has spent the greater part of his life in that State.

His family is being taken to Yuma, Arizona, by the Santa Fe Railway. The journey is a long one, but it is a very pleasant one, and the Santa Fe Railway is doing its best to make it so.

The Santa Fe Railway is doing its best to make the journey as comfortable as possible. It has a fine fleet of passenger cars, and the service is of the highest quality.

HOUSE.

On the first of September last J. K. Day and his brother George left Camp Verde, Yavapai county, in a small boat on a trapping expedition. They arrived in Yuma on Sunday, having made the journey in a little less than six months.

J. K. Day has been engaged in trapping for some years past and says that it requires only experience and a little patience to make a very remunerative profit out of the business. He brought a large quantity of furs, consisting of beaver and otter, which always command good prices, the demand for such pelts being always greater than the supply. The journey began on the beautiful Limpid Verde river, which received its name of "green river," on account of the apparent color of the water, which is really clear as crystal, but its mirror-like surface reflects the verdure from each bank, giving it the appearance of being colored like the surrounding foliage. After leaving the Verde, the Rio Salado, or Salt river was entered, from which the trappers came down the Gila and soon found themselves at Yuma, their boat floating upon the waters of the great Colorado of the west. The distance traveled by the Messrs. Day by river is a trip over 800 miles, and is the fifth one made by J. K. Day.

The two trappers will leave by rail for Prescott within a few days and will repeat the trip next September.

Territorial Organization Suggested.

The Secretary of the Maricopa League Club of Republicans last evening received the following which explains itself.

Tempe, Arizona, March 24, 1883.
To the Secretary of the Republican League Club, Phoenix, Ariz.

It has been suggested by a number of the members of the League Club at this place, that a Territorial organization should be formed the better to unify and systematize the work of Republican propagandists in the coming six months.

As a considerable number of the leading Republicans of the Territory will assemble at Phoenix on April 7th for another purpose, that time would seem opportune for such a meeting and organization as we propose, and the local club here will probably hold a meeting this week to consider the matter of delegates to such a gathering.

The time is short, some one must take the initiative and I have assumed the responsibility of sending a communication similar to this to each of the clubs throughout the Territory.

Will you kindly lay this before your club with the request that they move promptly in the matter pro or con.

I am very truly yours for the cause,
Geo. W. CHEYNEY.

Mr. Cheyney's suggestion to have the organization take place when the Territorial Convention meets is a good one.

The thing can be done nicely without additional expense to the

"German Syrup"

J. C. Davis, Rector of St. James' Episcopal Church, Eufaula, Ala.: "My son has been badly afflicted with a fearful and threatening cough for several months, and after trying several prescriptions from physicians which failed to relieve him, he had been perfectly restored by the use of two bottles of Rosch's German Syrup. I can recommend it without hesitation." Chronic severe, deep-seated coughs like this are as severe tests as a remedy can be subjected to. It is for these long-standing cases that Rosch's German Syrup is made a specialty. Many others afflicted as this lad was, will do well to make a note of this.

J. F. Arnold, Montevideo, Minn., writes: I always use German Syrup for a Cold on the Lungs. I have never found an equal to it—far less a superior.

ADVENTUROUS PASSAGE.

The Trials of the Engineering Party

framed in the Survey of the Salt River Through the Canyon to Tonto Basin.

A private letter was received yesterday from W. A. Farish, the chief engineer of the Hudson Reservoir and Irrigation company's survey, detailing the vicissitudes and difficulties attending the passage of the eighteen miles of canyon between the diversion dam and the exit of the river from Tonto Basin.

On Monday afternoon one of the pontoons employed in the passage was overturned and the occupants were thrown into the water. When the boat was finally recovered two of the ribs were found to be smashed and the boat was so badly rendered unserviceable. Here another unforeseen difficulty was encountered. The party could not travel all night and it was necessary to find a camping spot. The precipitous side of the canyon was ascended and the search for a spot suitable for camping purposes occupied nearly five hours.

Mr. Farish writes that the survey of the river bed will be completed to the mouth of the 8.

BISBEE PARTY WILL BRAVE THE UNKNOWN

Fifteen Brave Men Leave Oct. 15, to Explore Tiburon Island for Rich Mineral Deposits Believed to Exist There

Starting out to brave the dangers of an island practically unknown to civilization, fifteen Arizonans, mostly Bisbeeites, will leave this city about October 15 for the Isle of Tiburon, off the coast of Sonora in the Gulf of California.

Not only are there the dangers after the island is reached, but Tiburon is noted for being a particularly hard spot for navigators to approach on account of the fierce monsoon encountered in the Straits of Tiburon. This has kept many a vessel away.

Two previous expeditions have resulted in death and disaster. The first, in 1893, was headed by Lieutenant Robinson. The lieutenant and two companions left Phoenix, going down the Salt River by boat to Yuma, and to Tiburon via the Colorado. When the party landed, Robinson and one companion, leaving the other to watch their supplies, went inland a short distance and encountered a party of Seri Indians, a savage and ferocious tribe, and one of them asked to look at Robinson's gun. Robinson complied and the Indian shot him dead, then stabbed his companion to death. After many hardships the third member of the party reached Guaymas, where he told of the slaughter of his two companions.

Later Professor Tom Girdell of Douglas, attempted to reach the island. He and his party crossed Sonora by mules, then set out in a boat. But one member of that party, Jack Hoffman, returned alive to civilization. The rest are supposed to have been killed by the Indians.

The reason that so many are anxious to reach and develop the resources of this hitherto uncivilized isle is the fact that it is supposed to abound in gold and other precious metals, and that the Seri Indians have large quantities of it in their possession. Immense pearl fisheries are also said to exist about Tiburon's shores. The island is supposed to contain deposits of uranium and carnotite, or pitchblend.

The Indians are what have proved the stumbling block to previous explorers. The idea can be circumvented in the straits, but the savages are one of the fiercest tribes known, and so far have been able to keep the island to themselves. It is also said that they practice cannibalism.

Most of these Indians have at one time or another been slaves to the Mexicans on the mainland. Whenever opportunity offered one of them would kill his master, steal his rifle and ammunition and escape to Tiburon, so that white men invading its precincts will be confronted with savages armed with their own weapons, and doubtless able to use them.

The party leaving Bisbee is nothing daunted by these reports. Every member is a crack shot, some of them rangers and cowboys, and every man will be armed with a Winchester 30-40 rifle and 300 rounds of ammunition, besides two revolvers and a knife apiece.

The personnel of the party is not yet complete, but to date will include Deputy Marshal Ed Stevens, Joe Deals, Chester Kliggar, Billy Gida, Billy Needham, Bill White (not Deputy Sheriff Bill), Fay Jones, J. V. Jones and How Hamilton of Phoenix. The latter is an ex-guard at the Yuma prison. Dr. Jones of Prescott, will be surgeon of the expedition.

The party will proceed by train to Guaymas. There they will hire a boat to convey them to the island, where they will be landed with an outfit sufficient for three months' stay. At the end of three months the boat will return to take them back to civilization.

"We haven't yet completely made up our party," said Ed Stevens yesterday. "We will, however, have the sufficient number gathered by the time we are ready to start."

Among the others who will go, Johnson, "the original Tangle," must not be forgotten. "Tangle" will supply the mining expert knowledge required on the expedition. He now has in his possession several specimens of uranium and carnotite, and also some valuable publications on these subjects, sent him by the Colorado School of Mines. President Allison, of that institution, states that he will be pleased to make analysis of specimens the expedition may procure on Tiburon.

BISBEE PARTY WILL BRAVE THE UNKNOWN

Fifteen Brave Men Leave Oct. 15, to Explore Tiburon Island for Rich Mineral Deposits Believed to Exist There

Having met to brave the dangers of an island previously unknown to civilization, fifteen Arizona party hunters, who leave this city about October 15, for the island of Tiburon, off the coast of Oregon in the Gulf of California.

Not only are these dangers of the island revealed but Tiburon is said to be particularly rich in minerals for exploration. It is believed that the island is rich in copper, silver, lead, zinc, iron, and other minerals. The party is expected to return in about a month.

Two previous expeditions have resulted in death and disaster. The first, in 1853, was headed by Lieutenant Robinson. The expedition and the companions left Phoenix, riding down the Salt River by boat to Yuma, and so to Tiburon via the Colorado. When the party headed, Robinson and one companion, leaving the sailor to work their supplies, went to a short distance and discovered a party of five Indians, a savage and treacherous tribe, and of their attack on the party. The Indians were killed and the bodies of the sailors were then buried in the sand. The party then returned to Tiburon, where they were again attacked by the Indians. The party was then dispersed, and the survivors were rescued by the United States Navy.

The second expedition, headed by Lieutenant Robinson, was also disastrous. The party was attacked by the Indians, and the survivors were rescued by the United States Navy.

The party of fifteen men, who are expected to return in about a month, are expected to explore the island for rich mineral deposits. The party is expected to return with valuable information regarding the island's resources.

Yesterday morning Amos Adams and G. W. Evans arrived in Phoenix having come all the way from Clifton to Sacaton in a boat. These gentlemen enjoy the proud distinction of being the first men to pass through the box canyon of the Gila by water. They left Clifton on January second and launching their boat which had been specially constructed for the purpose in the San Francisco river, they journeyed down that stream to the Gila which they entered fourteen miles below Clifton. From that point they remained in the Gila, until they reached Sacaton, travelling by that stream about three hundred miles. There they disembarked and hauled their boat to Phoenix and after laying in provisions, etc., will leave tomorrow on the Salt river, to the Gila, thence to the Colorado and by that stream to the Gulf.

that ducks were plentiful and that Evans ate so much of them that he "quacks" now instead of talks. That of course is strange, in fact phenomenal, as all will testify who knows him.
On entering or passing through the range of mountains that the river cuts, called the Estrella or Gila Bend, we got into a mineral zone, judging from the looks of the country rocks, which is a granite formation, and believe that in them there is a good field for a prospector.

We have arrived at the Wolfley dam and find about 600 feet washed away, with no sign of any one repairing it.
But below saw that a number of men and teams were at work on another dam, the work being pushed by Toohey & George. We found plenty of bees and a cave of honey. Oh! we are sweet, flip Jacks and honey.

We are at the Southern Pacific pumping station, four miles from Gila Bend
We are passing through a fine country, which is adapted to agricultural purposes and are surprised at the evidences of thrift and enterprise to be seen as we sail along, of the ranchers that have settled along the river.

Yours, AMOS ADAMS.

Boating in Arizona.

It does one so much good to read of boating in Arizona that we produce the following account of a wreck on the Gila from the Arizonian:

On the 9th inst. the large ferry boat which had been used for years on the Salt River at the Maricopa crossing was floated down the river with the purpose of taking her to the Gila Bend crossing. Five men were manning her and everything was going on smooth until they reached a point about forty miles below Phoenix, when the boat came in contact with a willow snag just in the middle of the river. The current of the river being about at the rate of fifteen miles per hour the five men lost control of her and she struck the snag. She was cut in two parts as if she had come across a buzz saw. She is a total loss. Her owners, Messrs. Vol Gentry and W. Cox, valued her at about $1,000.

Mexicans are busy hauling the thousands of more cords of wood from Fort Lowell to Lt. Chandler's mammoth steam dredger, that is now clearing a magnificent new head for the Mesa Consolidated canal. The wood was appropriated when the government retired from that military post. An effort was at first made to float the wood down the Verde and Salt rivers, but when about 500 cords had been unloaded in the Verde, preparatory to floating, the scheme was abandoned on account of threatened danger to the Arizona dam. The next flood will probably distribute a fine lot of fire wood among residents on lower Salt river.—Phoenix Gazette.

The recent rains have put the Salt river in the raging torrent class, although at this time the water is receding.

The High Line road, which has been under construction for some months, is now rapidly approaching completion, the Mesa stage making its first trip across it on Monday, the 24th. The completion of this road will solve the big transportation problem for the government, as before its completion, and at the time of the heavy rains and floods, the nearest the Mesa stage could get to Roosevelt was Rotticher's camp, some four miles down the canyon, the balance of the distance being over trail, and all freight came over via the pack train, or else was hauled up the river in a boat, both modes of transportation of but little comfort to the traveler and expensive.

THE PRICE FIXED ON THE CANALS

But the Finding of Appraising Board is Not Disclosed.

The board of engineers of the reclamation service, which has been engaged since a week ago last Monday in appraising the property of the Arizona Water company, finished their presumed it was forwarded this morning to the interior department. A copy of the report would be a very interesting thing to publish, a fact that seemed to be fully appreciated by the engineers, who were careful not to leave a copy of it lying round where a reporter could get hold of it. This was not disappointing, however, for no air castles had been built in anticipation.

M. & P. train for his home in California and Engineers Hill, Wisner, and Sanders, accompanied by their wives and Engineer Grunsky, left for Mesa City. This morning they will continue their journey toward Roosevelt, going as far as Fish creek and finishing the trip Sunday morning.

Mr. Fowler, who has been commissioned by the board of governors to go to Washington, will not leave until Sunday morning, instead of this morning, as originally planned. Mrs. Fowler, who has been ill for several days, though much improved, is not yet able to leave her room, or was not yesterday, and he has decided to stay here a day longer. No time will be lost for the reason that he can still get to Washington by the time the report of the engineers is before the officials for consideration, which in the natural order of things would not be before next Friday or Saturday.

Mr. Fowler and Engineer Grunsky returned yesterday morning from Mesa City, where they spent the night before after a very hard day's work in sightseeing and inspection, traveling about sixty-five miles. They spent Wednesday looking over the western part of the valley and traveling about forty miles, so that Engineer Grunsky has driven over more than a hundred miles of the irrigation district during his short visit and has secured a very good general idea of what is going on. He says he has been greatly impressed with the country and with its possibilities with the completion of the storage reservoir.

Thursday's trip was devoted mainly to an inspection of diversion facilities and a hasty view of the irrigated section south of Mesa City. Starting about 5 o'clock Thursday morning, with Messrs. Fowler, McDermott, and McClung, the drive was first to the Consolidated head, then to the Tempe bridges, where an idea was gained of the height of the water in the recent flood and the damages to the bridges and canals, with a long-distance view of the upper end of the Appropriates' canal. Returning to the old mound on the Crosscut, they went north to power house No. 2 and the falls, inspecting all these properties, then via Ingle's side to power house No. 1 and on to the Arizona dam, looking over the wreck of the Arizona dam and the proposed site of the new diversion dam. Immediately after luncheon they started down the river in a boat toward the head of the Consolidated canal. They found the Salt river a poor stream for navigation, however, and in the voyage of a mile they were shipwrecked twice, though without loss of life or property. In the first incident the boat went on a rock in a rapid and the next time stuck on a sandbar. On one occasion it threatened to turn over, but was righted with a little difficulty. They finally made a landing a little above the Consolidated head and after a walk of perhaps a mile met Dr. Chandler, who drove them to Mesa, changed horses, and then drove them several miles south to his pumping plant and various other south side ranches. They returned to Mesa late in the evening and came on to Phoenix yesterday morning.

THE PHOENIX SHIPYARD

Its First Boat, a Suspicious Looking Vessel, Launched Yesterday.

The people that live along the lower Gila are pretty well accustomed by this time to seeing all manner of strange things drifting down on the breast of that ever surging stream. Such odd collections as railroad bridges, ferry boats, barn houses, chicken coops, lumber yards, etc., no longer create surprise. But there was launched here yesterday something that may make their eyes bug out for it was ostensibly a house boat, though it may be a torpedo boat in disguise or some new manner of war vessel that has been constructed here on the quiet for the Russians with a view of attacking Togo's fleet in the rear while he is busy heading off Rojastvensky's Battle squadron as it enters Chinese waters.

It will at the same time be a matter of news to Phoenix people to know that this city has a real ship yard and that the product of it is already in evidence.

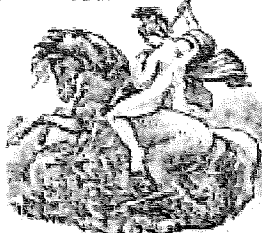

The master mind of this shipbuilding enterprise is a Mr. Jacob Shively who came here not long ago from Ashland, Oregon. While Phoenix was standing around in open mouthed wonder, not imaging before that there was so much water in the world, Mr. Shively was engaged on plans to make some use of it. He came from a country where they have had water before and a little surplus does not bewilder them. Mr. Shively is 74 years old and therefore of sufficiently mature experience to conduct his own business without taking the whole world into his confidence or asking the advice of the whole town as the average man does before he starts something.

He secured space for a drydock of the Chamberlain Lumber Co. and proceeded with the construction of the keel and first deck. A second deck was contemplated at first and the fact that the plans were changed leads to the suspicion that Mr. Shively had a war ship in mind and received a change of orders from his prospective purchaser or employer. In the event the plans had been previously perfected. Anyhow it is surmised that a one decker could creep about more stealthily than a formidable appearing boat. In lieu of a second deck or a cabin, therefore, he equipped the vessel with bows for a wagon sheet which will turn Arizona hallstones, the only thing one needs armor for in these waters. When stripped for action the wagon sheet may be removed.

The boat was finished yesterday morning and the dry dock being some distance from the harbor a two horse wagon was pressed into service to assist in the launching which was accomplished without the slightest trouble. The launching was in the presence of a vast crowd of two or three men and there was no champagne wasted or other ceremony of a public character. The builder announced his intention of accompanying the crew as far at least as Yuma but he was silent concerning his later plans. There are fears in some quarters that the boat may prove to be a submarine before it leaves American waters.

WATER FRONT NEWS—A few days ago The Republican announced the launching of a strange and mysterious craft from the Phoenix Ship-building yards. Since then this paper has been in communication with its marine reporters at lower river ports with regard to the progress of the vessel. The following report was received yesterday from the correspondent at Arlington: "The suspicious looking vessel launched from the Phoenix shipyards on the 23rd inst., bearing Captain Schreiber and crew was sighted off the Arlington coast about 1 p. m., March 24. The captain reported having encountered rough water and for a time the boat was semi-submarine. As a precaution against more billows side boards were put on her somewhere along the Buck-eye coast. She was last reported near the Wolfley dam."

GILA RIVER NAVIGATION

Official Log of Capt. Jacob Shively's Recent Expedition.

A short time ago there was given in these columns the story of the launching of a mysterious craft from the Phoenix shipyards. It sailed west from this harbor under command of Captain Jacob Shively, admiral of the Gila river fleet. Later it was announced that the vessel had safely run the blockade of the Buskeye dam and was continuing on its course regardless. T. W. Chamberlain who holds a proprietary interest in the ship yard (but not in the ship) has received the following letter from Admiral Shively, it being virtually a log of the voyage. It is reproduced verbatim for it tells actually and by inference, more things than could be related in the same space by the best newspaper man in the world. The letter follows:

Yuma fri March the 29 1905; Well Mr Chamberlain, Sir; i would rather report to you if it was to the river but it is bad. One day very well 2 day all rite til time to go to shore and we sposed to be good place to go out and the firs thing we new we was going around like a top. we maid the thirde effort before we got out and we stoped and unloded for the night and had rest til 3 oclock in the morn pard got up and Sald the boat was about to get away. So i got up fixed the boat and laid down agane and heard the dirt fawling in to the water. So i got up, put mi shoos on and we took our bed and all the rest of the things we moved them back farther from the water. In one hour our bed place was gone out of site. We got a good earlay start and at about 7 oclock we was capsized without any time to think til after we was under the bouling waves. I tride to get a held of the boat but the wayes put me under and i came up again and i held mi breath ti i made a nother rize and i came up and got a breath and swam out. it was the hardest swim

i have ever exsperienced in all mi lifetime. mi close was so heavy that i could hardly walk. we saved the boat but we lost a most all so we was done up for the balance of the trip but we got to gether all we could find and got in the boat and went on down stream. We found our wagon sheat with mi bed close so we got them so it came time to go out for night. The morning of the 26 we found some in-dions and got them to help us out. We was about 8 miles of Heley bend station so we got there. When i got here i got a letter from mi boy saying i should go to Santiago so i will leave here just as soon as i can. this is no place for me. i got nuff of river to drink in the hieley. I don't want so much mixture of water as the Colorado and hieley and the water is not fit for dog. i am not very well but i feel better today than i have bin. i will not make any comments. one thing i will say no one has any business on that river with a boat les than 6 feet

AN ACT OF PIRACY ON THE RAGING SALT

AN UNLAWFUL EXPEDITION IN-TERRUPTED.

Four Boys of Tender Years Fly the Jolly Roger.

There has been an act of piracy near Phoenix to which the attention of the admiralty court or the juvenile court is hereby directed. Tom Rains, who keeps a boat on the river near the foot of Seventh avenue, called at the office of the sheriff on Wednesday night and reported that it had been stolen. He said that a Mexican youth in his employ had come upon the thieves, who had tied the boat up some distance down the river, where it then was. Mr. Rains only wanted the thieves punished.

The Mexican youth said that the piratical crew was made up of whites and blacks, and that he knew the rascals of the blacks. Deputy Sheriff Adams, heavily armed, accompanied him to a house near the corner of Adams and Third streets, where there were several negro children. The Mexican boy picked out two desperadoes, one about eight years of age and the other about ten. He was not sure that they were the Captain Kidds, but he would know if they put their caps on. In the meantime these had denied any knowledge of the theft of the boat, but when they put on the caps and were positively identified, they turned into tears and said they knew all about it, but that they had been the victims of a press-gang, consisting of a small white boy. They accompanied the officer to his home, but he had not returned. They then went with the officer to the home of the fourth boy of the crew, and identified him through a window as he was eating his supper.

From all of the three boys the officer got the following connected story of the crime on the high seas. The unbound white boy, accompanied by the negro children, went to the river on Tuesday and found the boat anchored to a sand bar some distance from the bank. The white youth divested himself of his clothing and went after it. He brought it to the shore and the negroes embarked, and the nose of the boat was pointed down the river.

They worked their way down through shoals and rapids for a distance of two miles. It was then getting late in the afternoon, and the vessel was tied up for the night, and captain and crew returned to the city.

On Wednesday morning, they started out bright and early and met the fourth boy, who was on his way to a butcher shop for a steak for breakfast. His spirit of adventure was aroused by the thrilling tale of the events of the day before, and he joined the crew.

That day was spent in running the boat seven miles further down the river, and they, perhaps, would have made a longer voyage, but about 5 o'clock in the afternoon the boy who had been sent out on the breakfast errand remembered that he had not yet had his breakfast.

It was then decided to anchor the boat again and return to Phoenix, but on the following morning they were going to re-embark and pursue their voyage to Tucson. That brings events up to the time of the discovery of the theft of the boat and the gathering together of the pirates by the strong hand of the law.

The three boys already in custody were sent to their respective homes with instructions to report at the office of the sheriff early yesterday morning. When Deputy Sheriff Adams came down town he found, instead of three boys, four awaiting his arrival. The fourth was the captain, and the instigator of the outrage, who had been vainly sought for the night before.

He had called at the home of the little negroes to recruit them for the voyage to Tucson. They mistook, seized him, and by force and threats compelled him to accompany them to the office of the sheriff.

There the quartet was severely lectured on the sin of boat stealing and were sent home.

Louis Selly is turning out to be a master boat builder, completing one very recently for Doctor Smith and now having another one almost completed for Dan Giggins, chief electrician for J. M. O'Rourke & Company. In the meantime, he has orders ahead for two or three more, one of which goes to Jim Holmes as soon as it can be built. As he is putting up a good article at a very low figure, he is apt to be kept busy for some time.

The first trip ever made from Roosevelt to Mesa by way of boat was that of yesterday when Roy Thorpe and James Crawford arrived in Mesa by way of the Mesa canal, having made the entire journey from the dam site by means of an ordinary row boat.

The original idea of the voyagers in making the trip was to enjoy the sensations of going over a route that is seldom frequented and also attempting a feat which has never yet been accomplished. It is understood that at least two parties have made the trip by boat from Roosevelt to Granite Reef, but the making of the entire trip by water from Roosevelt to Mesa is a record.

The row boat which was used throughout the journey was in a very dilapidated condition at the end of the trip. Before the start was made three bottoms had been placed in the craft and one of these had been worn through by the constant friction with the boulders and sands found in shallow waters. Many times the men were compelled to lift their craft from the water and carry it over obstacles and at other times had to haul it along the stands.

After leaving Granite Reef the boat was placed in the south side canal and followed it until the division gates were reached yesterday about noon. The remainder of the trip was made by way of the Mesa canal.

One incident of the trip was that just prior to leaving Roosevelt one of the men exchanged a faithful dog to which he had become attached, for a puppy. The idea being that the older dog would be entirely too heavy for the craft. The dog, which was left at Roosevelt, in some manner chewed the rope in two with which he was tied and followed his master the entire distance, arriving at Granite Reef but a few hours after the boatmen had left. Those who understand the Salt river will recognize that the feat performed by the dog is even greater than that by the men. Coming through Box canyon necessitated the animal swimming for a considerable distance, while the falls this side of Mormon Flat would offer many obstacles. The men are well pleased with their adventure, but have no serious intention of attempting to go into competition with the stage company, nor did they attempt to break any speed regulations.

FROM ROOSEVELT TO PHOENIX BY CANAL IS TRIP DESCRIBED

Navigable possibilities of Phoenix were unexpectedly brought to the front yesterday at the luncheon meeting of the Rotary club when Herbert Koenig, 107 North Scott, two Phoenix young men, described in a most interesting manner a trip by canal from Roosevelt lake to Phoenix, thus placing this part of the water map in a manner that offers many future possibilities.

The canal in which the trip was made was built expressly for that purpose and was made extra strong although light in order to be easily transported around rapids that could be navigated. They took along a camera, food, gun, fishing tackle and a necessary amount of bedding.

After spending some time on the lake fishing, during which they encountered a few squalls which made them fearless of anything they anticipated in the river, the young men transported their canoe to below the dam, placed it in the water and the trip started.

They left Roosevelt in the morning, starting 100 yards below the dam. The first two rapids were taken all right. The next stream, told the Rotarians, was the boys had the first upset. Fortunately, everything in the canoe was strapped in and nothing was lost. It was not long after reaching the boat that they went over again. There are some rapids that they dared not attempt to run. The first day's voyage took the young men to the point where the river leaves the river. The second day they reached a point two miles the other side of Fish Creek.

The magnificent scenery in that part of the trip was adequately described by the speaker. Having seen the Grand Canyon, he stated that there are parts of Fish Creek canyon that rival that world wonder. Walls 1000 feet high tower above the river and there are points where the stars are visible at night in the afternoon.

From Fish Creek to Mormon Plate the boys were not compelled to get out of the canoe. The run from Fish Creek to the flats was made in three and one half hours. They reached Granite Reef for the night at 5:30.

SAVY pictures were taken on the trip, but the boys stated that in order to do justice to the photographic possibilities of the journey there should be one person whose only duty it should be to handle the camera, for they were too occupied in handling the canoe to be prepared to catch a scene at the proper time.

Considerable fun was evoked from the fact that after having shot many gorgeous rapids in the river in the caution, the boys were upset in the start of the Arizona canal. This happened when they were trying to go under a water gate which they had misjudged and the height from the water to the gate was not sufficient. The canoe was not strapped in and they were fishing out stuff from the canal for some time afterward.

The description of the canal trip from Roosevelt lake to Phoenix was a veritable climax, it being so unusual and probably will be the cause of other similar trips. The young men reached an audience at the conclusion of the description of the trip.
