Fine Catches of Many Varieties of Fine Fish Reported on Salt River; Catfish in Arizona Canal

Sportsmen around the valley who have indulged in fishing along the Salt river as far east as Granite Reef dam and as far west as the Indian sloughs and the junction have reported that fishing is getting good. Heavy catches have been made on such fish as catfish, salmon trout, goggle-eyed perch and black bass. Many fishing parties will leave Saturday night and Sunday morning for a day's enjoyment on the bank of some shady pool where they may throw in their lines and catch a large mess of the finny tribe.

A large catfish weighing about nine pounds was caught in the Arizona canal the other day by a farmer near the Duncan orange grove. Catfish are mighty fine eating, and now that fishing is so good many picnic parties will enjoy this sport.
