No Trace of John McCarty.

J. K. Day is in town from his search of John McCarty, who suddenly disappeared from their hunting camp near Poverty Flat on June 6. Mr. Day was in Flagstaff after supplies when McCarty left camp to hunt wild pigeons, and returned to camp two days later, to find his comrades searching for McCarty, who at that time was believed to have lost his way back to camp.

Mr. Day has continued his search ever since, and has looked the sides and bottoms of the canyons over in the vicinity of where McCarty disappeared in a systematic manner. He has found what he believes to be a shell from McCarty's gun, and this is the only trace of the missing man. The shell was found in another direction from the way McCarty told the men in camp he would go.

Mr. Day has not given up hope of finding his missing companion, and will search every canyon in that vicinity. He is of the opinion that McCarthy is dead, and that his body will be found in one of the numerous canyons breaking out from the rim, and this can only be done by searching each canyon in turn.

At times there has been as many as one hundred men looking for the missing man, but they have one by one given up, and Mr. Day is now the only one left to continue the sad duty.

Mr. Day is of the opinion that McCarthy was injured or killed by the accidental discharge of his gun, or had an encounter with a bear, which ended disastrously so him.

Mrs. John McCarty has offered a reward of $500 for the recovery of the body of her husband, and this offer it is believed will stimulate others besides Mr. Day to participate in the search. However this may be, Mr. Day will continue the search without hope of reward, other than the satisfaction that he has done his duty to a friend.

Grand Lodge of Elks.

The grand lodge of Elks closed its annual session at Milwaukee yesterday. A press report of July 24 says: Salt Lake City was honored by being selected as the next meeting place of the Grand Lodge of Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, and Grand Rapids, Mich., captured the first prize in the big Elks parade this afternoon. The Toledo "Cherry Pickers" were awarded the second and the Chicago contingent third moneys. The Greenville, Miss., lodge was given first prize for the most unique display in the pageant.

The parade was, by all odds, the most beautiful and successful of its kind ever seen in Milwaukee. Fully 3,000 Elks took part. It was made up of seven different divisions. About fifty lodges from all parts of the country took part. Half of these brought bands of music, which preceded the marchers. A fire run and contests were the features tonight and were followed at midnight by a "ghost parade," in which many took part. The costumes were of a gruesome order, the skull and crossbones playing a prominent part in their make-up.

The Best Liniment for Strains.

Mr. F. H. Wells, the merchant at Deer Park, Long Island, N. Y., says: "I always recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm as the best liniment for strains. I used it last winter for a severe lameness in the side, resulting from a strain, and was greatly pleased with the quick relief and cure it effected." For sale at the Pioneer Drug Store.

J. Herman, proprietor of the New York Store, returned yesterday from a business trip to San Francisco.

Inspection of Company I, N. G. A.

Company I, N. G. A. has been completely reorganized by Captain Geo. W. Glowner under the new law passed by the last legislature. For the past two years the company has practically remained on paper only, as there were no funds available by which the company could be kept up. But the company now draws thirty dollars a month, and under the appropriations made by congress it is estimated Company I, will have about $1000 coming to it in supplies. That much money with what it now has will buy every article necessary to completely equip a military company.

Last Monday night was the time set in orders for the inspection of the company by the inspector, Major Geo. Hochderffer. Out of a membership of thirty-two men, thirty-one showed up for inspection. The personnel of the company, as well as the company in company movements and the drill, discipline and general appearance of the men, showed up well, and the inspector made a report highly complimentary of the company. He also complimented the captain on the general condition of the arms, uniforms and equipment of the company. Flagstaff should feel proud of Company I, and the business men should encourage its members in every way possible.

It has decided by the company to go to Winslow some time this fall and there meet Company K of St. Johns and hold an encampment for a week or ten days as a battalion organization. It would add wonderfully to the soldiership of the boys and, therefore, needs the encouragement of Flagstaff, Winslow and St. Johns.

Death of Dr. Joshua Miller.

Dr. J. Miller died at the Commercial hotel on Monday evening at 8:30, of pneumonia.

Dr. Miller and wife left Phoenix on Saturday morning last for Thoro, N. M. The doctor had been ill for some time past and on his way was taken worse, and it was thought advisable to stop here. He had the best of nursing and medical skill, but all of no avail.

Dr. Miller was born in Missouri 55 years ago, and came to Arizona in 1854. In 1892 he was appointed superintendent of the territorial insane asylum by Governor Murphy, and in 1899 was again appointed to the same position which he filled until a few months ago, resigning on account of ill health.

As he was a student of archaeology and president of the Arizona Antiquarian Society since its organization, he spent a great deal of his time investigating the old ruins of the territory.

Dr. Miller has attended the Moqui snake dances every year for the past ten years, and was admitted to many of the secret orders of the Moquis.

The body was shipped to Phoenix, the funeral occurring there Thursday. The doctor had many intimate friends throughout the territory who will be pained to learn of his death.

IT'S THE HOUSEWIFE'S FRIEND.

Ordinary falling eye-sight is regarded by some as alarming—by some too carelessly. All eyes begin to fall at about the age of 40 years; some have trouble a year or so before that time, the majority not until after. From 38 to 45 is the time to consult a competent optician in order to start right. Otherwise several dangers confront you, among which is that terrible disease, glaucoma, which leads to total or partial blindness. Dr. Lewes estimates that 90 per cent of all cases of glaucoma is due to the "putting off" the use of glasses after failure begins. If you have any bother with your eyes consult Dr. Pratt while he is here.
