It is expected that the new ferry on the Salt river will be in running order to-morrow.

THE merchant who had that talk with have lost some money by bad debts among printers. The idea is not a strange one. There are men in every craft who are trilling and dishouest, but there are also in the seme craft as honest and honorable men us the merchant. There are triding and dishonest merchants; shall we condemn all merchants because f that fact? Not so.

circular as requested, in the same spirit we would give publication to an article written by the aforesaid merchant, in reply to the printers' union f that gentleman wishes to relieve the Star of the burden. We do not favor "paycotting." It is a species of retaliation from which little or no good comes. One threaters the merchant and the other a newspaper. It was kind in the "merchant" to draw the fire from Mr. Hughes and partially relieve him. It was shrewd in Mr. Hughes mixing the Cirizes up with his personal matters, to draw the fire from himself and making a catspaw of the marchant. This matter is one we are not personally interested in. It is time enough for us the subscribers present it was postponed when such a thing overtakes us. Employers and employes cannot always tion which enables us to start on the agree, and a time comes when there is a difference of opinion as regards wages; The proposition is said to be a fair one each undertakes to protect himself, and and the prospects fair to accomplish the the fellow that has the longest pale gots | ends sought, but if there was just a little the persimmon. This is not an extensive manufacturing town, where there are trades unions. The union men here are not numerous, and it may be safe to take a stand against them; still, workingmen are dropping in along the byways and highways, and all workingmen sympathuse with one an other, and as there is a future to The son-a manufacturing future-it would. be well to bear in mind that we may have quite a number of that class of people muong us before long. We will never become very prosperous unless we do. The Star, however, is off on this matter. While it may attempt to attract the attention of merchants, it will not succeed in arraying them against the Cirizes for publishing a communication from the Printers' Union. The CITIZEN alone pays out for wages during a year between $15,000 and $20,000; a sping little sum distributed around. Occasionally there may be a dead-best who fails to square his recounts and jump the town, but compared to the amount paid the printers the sum must be insignificant,
