BOAT SPILLS JEFF ADAMS INTO DIRTY SALT RIVER WATER

Sheriff of Maricopa County Sports Around In Turbu- lent Stream

Owing to the fact that the rapidly rising waters of the Salt River yesterday made it advisable for the residents of the river bottoms to seek higher lands, Sheriff Adams spent a good part of yesterday in the lowlands warning all persons that the flood was coming and suggesting that they get out of the path of the waters. Most of the people, however, paid but little attention to the warnings of the officer, evidently being in about the same frame of mind as were the antediluvian residents of the old world at the time when they watched Noah build his ark, and figured that the waters wouldn't get very high, and that Noah was displaying a very low grade of mentality in contending that the waters would soon rise and encompass them.

However, Jeff, accompanied by Charles Cox, bailiff in the superior court, and Harrison Williams, deputy sheriff, spends much time in sailing about the inundated regions in a small boat and telling the natives to "beat it", and offering help to all who needed it. The crew had just sailed out to a small island and had suggested to the lone occupant of the place that it would be a wise move to get into the mainland. The man did not see the wisdom of the sheriff's injunction, and refused to leave his island home. Jeff then started for the shore and was paddling his bark with lusty strokes, when the boat hit some sort of an obstruction in the water and promptly turned over, precipitating the crew of three into the muddy waters of the raging Salt river. The boat took the opportunity to escape in the melee which followed, and the three officers, after some more or less graceful floundering around in the water, succeeded in getting to the bank, safe, but mad as the proverbial wet hen.

COYOTE TRACKS

Just two, that we know of, that won't have their's in a short time, though.

Let it rain, rain, rain, because we'll go to school just the same. Although we would much rather see the sunshine, it makes no difference to a Coyote if it is a little muddy. But, gosh, it just simply queers the baseball practice. Here's hoping that we will be able to play the All Stars Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock sharp on the Folk street diamond.

There'll be lots of clubs getting busy with new business during the second semester. The Spanish and German clubs have been investigating around for a good interesting play.

News broke out the other day that Little Chicken, known the world over as Dick Edwards, has been elected manager of the track team. With Geary as coach, Chick as manager, and Fosberg as captain, oh, maybe you think we won't have S-O-M-E track team, fellows.

Do you suppose it would make any difference to P. H. S. if the football team got a trip to Pasadena next year? Well, it sure would, and it would also boost Phoenix like it has never been boosted before. "Every little movement has a meaning all its own." So let's get busy.

The P. H. S. baseball team will sure look sweet out on that mighty diamond with a different colored uniform on than brown. Gray and green don't sound good, but at the same time it looks good, and that's what counts nowadays.

Don't know but what the Freshmen brought this rain to P. H. S., as their registration yesterday was just as smooth as if nothing had happened.

The football fellows still have their little gold football emblems. There are

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER IS UNDER ARREST

S. Reid Graves, for four and a half years solicitor and collector for the wholesale department of Goldman & Co., has been arrested in San Antonio on a felony charge, the complaint being sworn to by his former employers. Graves, it is understood, will fight extradition.

The sum involved is stated to be $400 in the complaint, but is understood to be the exact amount alleged to have been stolen by Graves exceeds that sum by several hundred dollars. He was one of the most trusted employees of the company, having the full and complete confidence of his superiors. At no time during his years of employment, with the local concern was he under suspicion. He left town on the 31st of December, the following day being a holiday and then coming Sunday, giving him a full two days' head before the shortage was discovered. When he was not on duty the first of the year it was thought he was ill, and Eugene Goldman, partner in the firm, called at the Washington hotel, where he resided. The management did not know his whereabouts. He had moved, but had not said where he would be located, was the word given by Mr. Goldman. "Naturally," was answered by Mr. Goldman. "At first I could not believe the account, but, not straight, for we had implicit faith in the honesty of Graves. However, having a copy of the books we got, a shortage of $400."

Judge Ross recently addressed the Glendale Women's Club and the Glendale Parent Teachers' Association on this topic and the seventh and eighth grades and high school pupils were among those who attended the meeting. The Associated Oil company lost 64 out of 84 derricks in one field of its operations. One hundred carloads of material for rebuilding have already been ordered to the devastated fields.

Racing Plant Threatened SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 17.—Flood waters of the Tia Juana river threatened tonight the new racing plant of the Lower California Jockey club at Tia Juana, on the Mexican border near here. Hundreds of men were put to work to save a portion of the track which lies close to the river bank. Three days of steady rain had transformed both the Tia Juana and San Diego rivers into torrents, the rapidly rising waters having compelled hundreds of persons in the lowlands to abandon their dwellings. Continuation of the heavy rainfall is forecast for tomorrow.

SKOVGAARD'S VIOLIN WILL BE EXHIBITED

Skovgaard, the celebrated Danish violinist who appears at the Elks theater Monday evening, January 24, together with the Metropolitan company of operatic and concert singers, has advised his local manager, William Conrad Mills, that he will allow his $12,900 Stradivarius violin to be placed on exhibition for a few hours so that those interested may have an opportunity of seeing one of the few really famous violins in existence today.

Through the courtesy of the V. F. Hanny company, a show window in their store will be devoted to this purpose next Monday. Skovgaard and his company will reach Phoenix Sunday morning and Mills has made arrangements to have the company of six artists shown some of the interesting parts of the valley on Sunday afternoon.

Skovgaard has, in addition to two violins, a wonderful collection of violin bows which have been gradually secured on his extensive tours in Europe and America. This collection of bows will also be exhibited next Monday with the violin. To judge from the sale of tickets today at the box office and at Vic Hanny's, the entire house will be sold before the end of this week.

FAMILY SQUABBLE AIRED IN JUDGE DE SOUZA'S COURT

Family differences were aired in the justice court yesterday when P. Wurtz brought a disturbance of the peace charge against his brother-in-law, John Ernst. Wurtz contended that Ernst threw him out of his home, where he was working for nothing a year and room and board. His family, including a wife and two small children, shared his salary and lodging. While he was being heard Ernst also desired bearing and so did the wives of both men, who were present. Judge De Souza overruled, his gavel during the examination. Ernst was given a suspended fine of $10 and his partner shot to his brother-in-law, "no one could work with you together," was followed up by the judge, who advised the families to keep as far apart as possible.

EXPERT IN HOME PROBLEMS STARTS WORK IN VALLEY

Mrs. Salisbury to Speak Before Women's Clubs of Valley

Mrs. Edith C. Salisbury, of the University of Arizona, attended the meeting of the Maricopa County Farm Association yesterday afternoon, held at the Chamber of Commerce and addressed those present on her plans for the next two months. Mrs. Salisbury, who is a home economics expert, proposed to devote the next sixty days of her time to traveling about the valley addressing various women's clubs on the subject of home economics. She is sent out by the University and is an advanced expert in her line.

She will not only address the various clubs, but will, in an endeavor to help along, go into the private homes and there exemplify all phases of the subject. She will show the housewife how to help things along by cutting the bills to a minimum. She will tell what are the most nutritious foods and how to make cooking healthier, easier and more efficient.

The subject which she is handling has been taken up in Utah with great success, and Mrs. Salisbury is very enthusiastic over the prospects here. She will start preliminary meetings in the near future in various parts of the valley.

military escort was necessary in that region. The general disposition of state department officials is to regard this story as difficult of proof. T. H. Holmes, the only survivor of the party, has advised the department that if any safe conducts were granted, it was without his knowledge.

A dispatch from American Consul Silliman at Queretaro, announced that the de facto government had offered a "reward in gold" for the capture of the bandits who committed the Santa Ysabel murders. Another dispatch to the Mexican embassy from Carranza said that 42 American citizens in Chihuahua had sent to General Trevino, commander of the Carranza troops assigned to the bandit hunt a telegram of thanks for his activities.

Mr. Silliman's dispatch told also of renewed efforts by Carranza to reconstruct civil government in Mexico, and said municipal elections would be held throughout the country shortly after April first under a decree just issued.

My decision is founded on a long and familiarly established precedent," said Mr. Hardy, in calling attention to the rear.

COUNTY TO REPAIR FIVE POOR ROADS

Action Means Spending Much Money, But They Need It

Maricopa county will have more and better roads. The board of supervisors yesterday declared five roads to be county roads. Two of these will be the old Thomas road taken in two sections. The other three will be north and east of Mesa, south and west of Tempe and in section 29 of the Ingleside district. The Phoenix-Yuma road at Agua Caliente, that has been sadly in need of improvement, will be put in shape by a convict crew. The cost will be $5,000 a month, of which $3,500 will be taken over by the county and $1,500 will be appropriated by the state.

The board granted a franchise to Glendale that its present light and water plant might be extended outside of the city limits.

Following the completion of its regular business, the board and county engineer, C. W. Carruthers, inspected the Central avenue bridge. The height of the river gave rise to disquieting rumors yesterday, but the supervisors last evening declared the river to be two feet lower than last winter during the heavy rains.

NEGRO MINSTRELS ARE SEASON'S HIT

A large and enthusiastic audience turned out last evening to listen to the efforts of the colored Knights of Pythias, lined up on minstrels on the stage of the Columbia theater. The show was above the average and elicited considerable favorable comment. The Green Brothers, especially Paul, came in for lots of applause. Paul has a voice of fine quality and sang several solos. Among the others who should receive favorable mention are Perry Payne, Sunny Clay, Sunny Bond and Mr. Jackson. A number of bouquets were passed over the footlights to the amateurs, who received them with grateful bows.
