Judge Greenhaw, P. C. Bicknell and a party of eight others returned last evening from a hunting and fishing expedition down the river. They report having had a good time, enjoying themselves hugely, with perhaps the exception of his Honor the Judge, who complains of being somewhat used up. Some one hundred pounds of fish were caught, mostly Salt river trout, or "chubs," as they are better known. During their stay the bounds succeeded in treeing two lions, one of which was killed, also a wildcat. Others of the party succeeded in bugging a number of ducks and a goose. Should there be a little rain, it is the intention of the party to continue their expedition, and to that end, us the weather now is cloudy, some of the members have already secured horses and —— flask.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—A Washington special says: C. P. Huntington called on the President last night in relation to the appointment of commissioners to examine and report upon the comple-tion of the Southern Pacific road from Fort Wayne to El Paso. The Atlantic report to-night is that Huntington's mission was not successful, the Presi-sident hesitating to assume the resconsibility of appointing the commis-sioners, which would in effect amount to an Executive decision that the Southern ing them perjurers and liars. Elward the President has decided to do without special recommendation.
